President Sounds War Prevention Plea In Gettysburg Memorial Day Address

WORLD-WIDE PEACE MOVE IS PRAISED

President Expresses Hope For Arbitration of All International Troubles
RECITES U. S. POLICIES
No Nation Possesses Anything We Would Take by Force, Says Executive

GETTYSBURG, Pa., May 29.—Standing on one of the most significant battlefields of the Civil war—the field of Gettysburg—President Coolidge today pronounced the annual hope that negotiations initiated by the American government toward outlawry of war might be crowned with success.

In his speech, his annual Memorial day address, the president said it was the hope of mankind that arbitration and conciliation treaties may eventually induce modes of consciousness and habit of action that would result in the prevention of war.

"Referring to the proposal made in 1927 by M. Briand, French minister of foreign affairs, that France and the United States sign a treaty condemning recourse to war and renouncing it as an instrument of national policy in their mutual relations, the president said:

Impressive Moment
"During the 11 months that have since elapsed, this suggestion has been developed into one of the most impressive peace movements that the world has ever seen. The United States has accepted the principle underlying M. Briand's suggestion and has advocated its extension so as to include within the scope of the proposed treaty not only France and the United States, but also Great Britain, Germany, Italy and Japan, and any other nations of the world that might care to join with them in powers in a common renunciation of war."

The president pointed out that Secretary of State Kellogg had submitted a preliminary treaty draft to the other interested powers, which the American government was prepared to conclude.

Streams In Colorado At Flood Stage

(By United Press)
DENVER, May 29.—Summer-like heat, radiating from a blazing sun, is melting snow in the high mountains so rapidly that streams and rivers throughout Colorado already at flood stage, continued to rise swiftly today.

Workmen toiled with sand-bags and shovels in an effort to confine a reservoir to its banks and to keep streams from flooding the countryside at Salida, Colo.

The banks of the Little river, near here, were strengthened while searchers attempted to recover the bodies of two unidentified laborers, drowned yesterday.

The men were standing on a bridge over the river when the structure gave way, tossing them into the swirling stream.

A sudden drop in temperature is all that can save the river from a further rise, weather bureau forecasters predicted.

GLEASON EARLY LEADER IN BIG MOTOR CLASSIC

Deussenberg Pilot In Front After 250 Miles at Indianapolis

(By United Press)
INDIANAPOLIS, May 30.—Jimmy Gleason, of Philadelphia, piloted his Deussenberg Special into first position as the annual 500-mile Indianapolis Motor Speedway race reached the half-way mark this afternoon.

He covered the 250 miles in 2:38:43.4, an average of 102.962 miles an hour. His average broke the old record of 101.788 for the 250 miles held by Peter De Paolo, made in 1925.

The attendance was announced officially as 185,000.

Duane Durray, leader, a front wheel drive, took the lead at the start and held on for over 100 miles. The field was shifting constantly, first one motor nosing up to near Durray and then dropping back. Second and third places

'LAST NIGHT AT A BANKERS' BANQUET'

By One Who Admires
WILL ROGERS

Last night I was invited to the bankers' banquet at St. Ann's Inn, and as it was the first time I had ever had anything given me by a bank except my statement for interest due, I accepted with alacrity. I tried to run the whole family in on the invitation and say, would you believe it, it worked. The whole crew were caught off their guard.

I never was in the presence of so much money in all my life. But I can't say it didn't mean anything to me. My notes are coming due in a few days, and I was forced to sit down to a banker tell how men have committed suicide when he had refused them longer credit. I said this was being said to prepare me for the limit, but they don't know that I have been given $100,000 and that I am going to begin now simply because I can't pay my note. Why should I worry? That's their business. I pay them my interest money to have me worry. If I can't pay my note those are the bankers who should commit suicide, not me. I guess this banker didn't think of that but he will when he reads this. They had the West Coast Bank building green there to entertain, just as if this banker built were real human being. As I was standing there pulling off his mouth organ and this suicide promoter made in audience tone, "I wish I could do that."

"Why," asked the bank examiner, who sits in at those functions by his regular duty to see that the bankers don't spend their depositors' money. (By the way, the examiner's

Storms Force Rescue Boat Back To Base

Kings Bay Frantic as Hours Pass Without Word of Italia's Fate

BY LARS HANSEN

Written for the United Press
KINGS BAY, Spitzbergen, May 30.—Battered back by storms and ice from her rescue expedition, the Citta Di Milano, supply ship of the last polar dirigible "Italia" arrived here at 4 a. m., eastern standard time, today from Amsterdam Island.

Before her departure from Amsterdam Island—at the urgent demand of her Norwegian pilot, who said flatly that the jamming ice would smash her steel sides—the Citta Di Milano landed two technicians of the Italian Air Corps on the bleak, ice-bound Spitzbergen coast, to search for the "Italia."

To penetrate the interior
One detachment will go along the north coast while the other will penetrate the interior, seeking some trace of the craft that carried Gen. Umberto Nobile and his 15 followers over the north pole last week.

Another rescue expedition proceeded on foot today when four trappers left Kings Bay, going northeast across the interior of

Federal Action Last Hope For Julian Victims

LOS ANGELES, May 30.—Julian Petroleum corporation investors, who paid millions of dollars for millions of shares of worthless paper, looked to the federal government today as their last hope.

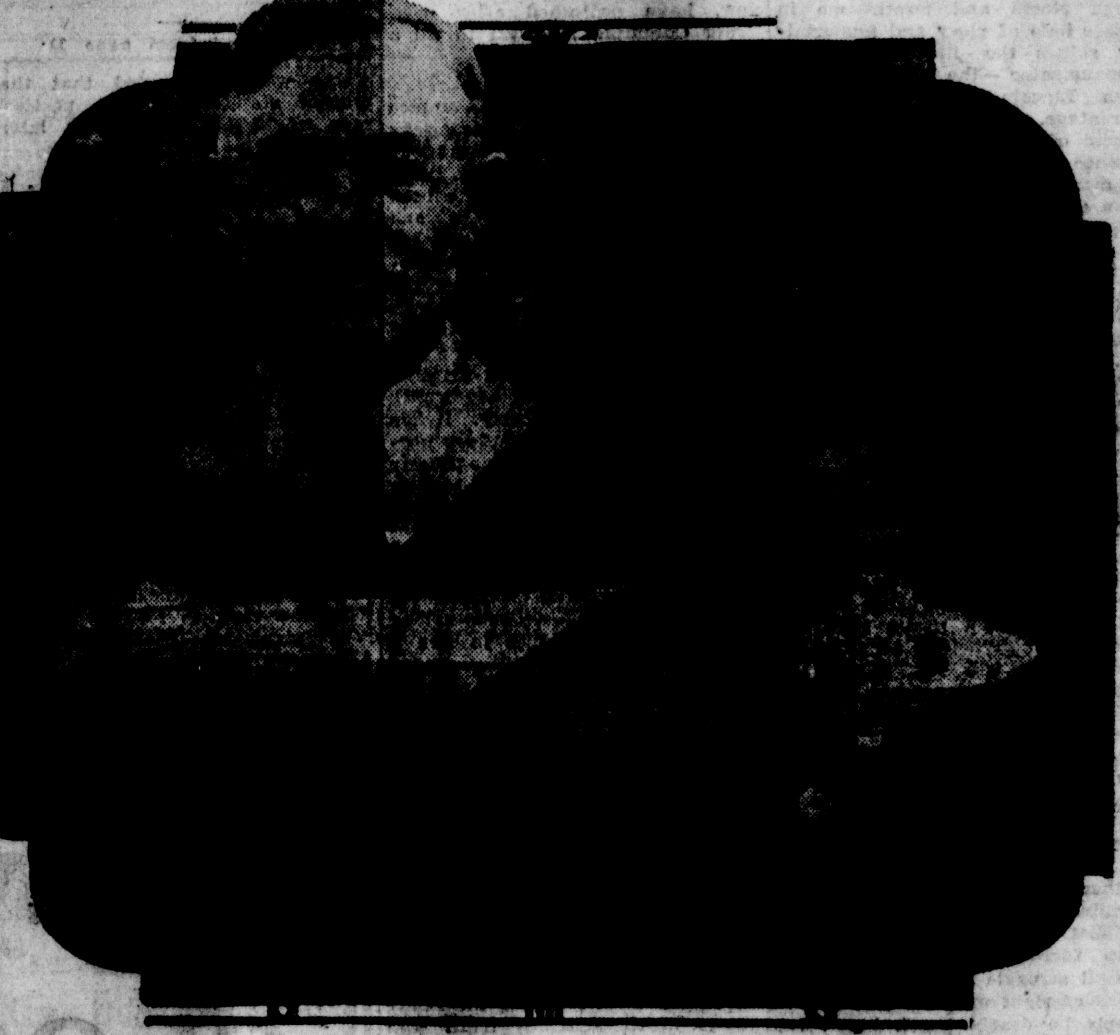

Both the prosecution of S. C. Lewis and Jack Bennett and the successful termination of the receivership of the company depends on the action the U. S. courts take within the next few weeks.

Of the 48 individuals who were indicted a year ago for participation in the wrecking of the Julian company, Lewis and Bennett are the only ones held by law, the state courts having freed all others.

The federal grand jury will begin its investigation of the Lewis Oil company tomorrow and is expected to return indictments against Lewis and Bennett, who already have been charged with misuse of the mails in the sale of stock.

The Albatross, as it appeared this morning shortly after taking off on its attempt to break the world's endurance record, is shown below. The insert shows Sterling Price, of Santa Ana, builder and owner of the giant craft. The Albatross made a perfect takeoff from the Orange county airport shortly after 7 o'clock this morning, with pilots confident of remaining aloft long enough to smash the present record of 88 hours, 36 minutes and one second.

CONGRESS DESERTS CAPITOL WITH ITS CALENDAR ALMOST CLEAR OF IMPORTANT BILLS

By PAUL R. MALLON
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, May 30.—The seventieth congress went home today to repair political fences and prepare for the presidential campaign. It left behind a calendar almost cleared of nationally important legislation.

President Coolidge still had the Muscle Shoals bill in his pocket. He may sign it within 10 days to make it a law or merely keep it in his pocket to kill it.

The Boulder dam bill, which caused much disorder in the closing days of the senate, officially is the unfinished business and will be the first problem tackled when congress reconvenes in December.

All other legislation of moment was crowded, save the big navy bill calling for construction of 15 more 16,000-ton cruisers and aircraft carrier.

The $225,000,000 tax reduction bill was made a law. A comprehensive plan for controlling floods in the Mississippi valley was placed on the statute books. The alien property, seized control and some lesser problems were dealt with.

The McNary-Haugen farm relief bill was pushed through both houses, vetoed by the president. Congress passed over the veto to the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill.

McNary bills, mostly concerning private claims, were passed.

CONFESSED BURGLAR ARRESTED IN L. A.

LOS ANGELES, May 30.—Confessing that he had participated in a $5000 downtown store burglary on December 17, last, Al Platinick, 33, of 214 North Clarence street, was arrested today and lodged in the city jail on a burglary charge.

Platinick, according to police, is a member of a safe blowing gang. Pete Galitschen, asserted 15-year old "brains" of the gang, was arrested in Venice earlier in the week.

The gang, investigating officers charge, have been responsible for a score of burglaries in Southern California during the last six months.

GIANT SANTA ANA CRAFT ALOFT IN QUEST OF NEW SUSTAINED FLIGHT RECORD

Ship Leaves Ground at 7:00:59 a. m.; Must Remain in Air Until 1:37:29 p. m., Friday

CARRY 1200 GALLONS GASOLINE

THE ALBATROSS, giant monoplane of the Zenith Aircraft corporation, late this afternoon was winging its way along the coast between San Diego and San Pedro, with its load of approximately eight tons, in quest of a new sustained flight record.

The big ship made a beautiful takeoff from the Orange county airport at 7:00:59 a. m., amid the applause and cheering of approximately 3500 onlookers. To break the world's record, the ship must remain in the air until 1:37:29 p. m., Friday. The Albatross carries 1200 gallons of gasoline.

The crew was at the port at 5 a. m., today, ready to roll the craft into the air, but a heavy fog prevented the takeoff until the later hour.

Under the force of the three motors, the heavily loaded ship ran down the smooth hard surface of the runway in a majestic manner, gaining speed rapidly until reaching the end of the course, when she nosed into the air in a beautiful takeoff, and without the assistance of a tail movement.

Clear Telephone Wires
The craft lifted within five or six feet of the end of the course and quickly made elevation sufficient to clear the telephone wires a short distance from the end of the course. The pilots continued nosing the machine up until the plane gained height sufficient to fly over the low hills bordering Newport bay and the ocean. On reaching the ocean the ship was turned in the direction of San Pedro and

YOUTH QUESTIONED IN GIRL'S MURDER

TOLEDO, O., May 30.—Police today questioned a 17-year-old boy in an attempt to solve the mystery of the brutal kidnapping and murder of 7-year-old Dorothy Selangowski.

The suspect was arrested shortly after the motor car, which had been used in spiriting Dorothy from her home, had been found.

The little girl was seized from her bed Tuesday morning. The father, awakened by screams of Dorothy's sister, saw a motor car pull away from in front of the house.

Later the girl's body was found on the front porch of her grandfather's home, just across the street from her own home. She had been assaulted and killed.

Police said fingerprints were found in the abductor's car, a stolen machine. The child's fingerprints were found on a glass in the rear curtain.

BANDITS HOLD UP MONTEBELLO PARTY

LOS ANGELES, May 30.—Party guests at the home of W. H. Dunn, Montebello Park, were robbed of jewelry and cash last night by two masked bandits.

Dunn, his wife and six visitors were lined up against the wall and then forced to turn over their valuables.

MEMORIAL DAY TALK DELIVERED BY BLOODGOOD

was given in Birch park, where patriotic music, songs and an address occupied attention of a vast throng during the afternoon hours.

Music by Bugle Corps
Music by the American Legion Bugle and Drum corps, directed by Bobby Davis, stirred the souls of the vast throng, the organization playing preliminary to the opening of the program.

The program was arranged by a committee of Sedgwick post, G. A. R.

The address of the afternoon was to be delivered by Freeman H. Bloodgood, deputy state real estate commissioner, who has delivered the memorial address on a number of occasions.

Bloodgood's address follows:

"My Fellow Countrymen:

"It is good for the soul to worship at the shrine of its ideals. Momentary memory today calls up the struggling battles of the past and we, the recipients of the blessings for which those brave ones fought and died, have met today to pay a tribute to the honored dead growing more heroic as the years go on.

"While some of us who meet today may not have been heroes in the fight, may not have been moved to noble deeds by the song and speech which prompted you, still we most heartily endorse the principles for which you fought and established, and as evidence of the fact that we love our country, we are willing to pledge ourselves to its support and defense should conditions arise involving its safety and welfare.

Purpose in Our War

"According to our idea of liberty and equality each succeeding age has made some advancement over the preceding. There is a vast difference between the principles for which America has fought and those principles which have moved former nations to war. The Persian fought for pillage, the Greek to show his bravery, the Roman contended for renown and power. He deemed it a greater honor to be crowned with a wreath upon the battlefield, dyed in the blood of thousands, than to gain a place in history as a philanthropist.

"Napoleon led his legions to victory that another laurel might be added to his crown of fame. That he might conquer thrones on which to place his next of kin, that he might bring back to Paris his pillage and pelf from other lands. And in doing all this murder and devastation, he lowered the stature of the French people two inches, left them so sickle as to adopt 17 different constitutions in the last hundred years and without an acre more of land than they possessed when he began his military career by firing grape and shelling down the streets of Paris. And he was not a Frenchman to boast with any more than was George III an Englishman.

"For the 200 years waged in Europe during the last three centuries, over two-thirds of them were carried on to satisfy the ambitions of a young despot. The nations were blindly led to battle that the tyrants might be empowered and the people debased, the king was everything, the people nothing.

Different With America
"But when America enters the arena of war there is a marked change. Clearly above the rattle of musketry and the roar of cannon, in unmistakable tones we heard the cry: 'All men are created free and equal! Government derive their just powers from the consent of the governed.' And later on again was heard, 'Constitutional supremacy or death! Freedom to every man beneath the sky! Sever the chains of slavery and set the captives free, and make despotism and oppression crouch at the feet of liberty.' With the European nations the leader alone bore the palm of victory. With us every soldier was to wear a crown. They fought to check the liberties of mankind; we fought for broader liberties. With them the few rule; with us the many.

Union Preserved

"If Americans have anything to be thankful for it is that this nation is one mighty unit, and that slavery no longer points at us a finger of scorn. Let the north and south rejoice. From the lakes to the gulf, and from Plymouth Rock and Jamestown to the golden sands of the Pacific, we are one.

"The Mississippi touches not the borders of a dozen empires; the mountains of the land frozen not down upon hostile territories; the ocean bears not upon its bosom the fleets of contending states; but over all the land a single flag throws out its folds, symbol of victory, index of a reunited people.

"Yes, but ah, the cost! Vast armies such as the world had never seen, before met each other in a death struggle. Blood ran as free as water; the ear of pity heard not, and the eye of sympathy saw not; the fountain of love ceased flowing and the death sickle mercilessly reaped a harvest in the field of human life. Farms were laid waste, plantations devastated, and thousands rendered homeless. Factories were locked up, the wheels of industry ceased rolling, a debt of $2,500,000,000 was incurred, 500,000 lives were sacrificed, and fully as many more men received wounds or contracted incurable diseases. Aye, and that is not all. Would you know the whole cost of the war, go coin the tears of fathers and mothers whose boys on battlefields have breathed their last; go coin the sorrows of widows whose husbands came not back; go coin the tears of little ones, of brothers and sisters, of friends and sweethearts who said goodbye to their dear ones forever.

Glory Enough to Go Around

"The wars that our government has had, unlike the campaigns of Caesar, or of Alexander, or of Napoleon, produced no one central figure in whose presence all others were to sink into insignificance. In America's history, a bright particular star does not shine forth unattended. Others accompany it and shed a steady though less brilliant luster over the nation's firmament. As the stars are not visible when the sun ascends the sky, so the soldier in the ranks is sometimes overlooked when our attention is directed toward our leading national lights. But when the sun has sunk into his golden cup in the west and the earth is lulled into quiet and repose, then it is that the blue dome above us becomes diamond-tinted with these lesser lights, and one of them is just as important as another in making up this great universe about us. So when the din of battle has been hushed; when the soldiers return and we carefully consider the power that wrought this great work, we find that each soldier had a part to perform, each helped to make up that great throng that enabled the generals to carry out their plans.

All Are Heroes

"Not alone was 'unconditional surrender' Grant to be hailed as chief; not alone was Sherman to be crowned conqueror whose two-edged sword severed the bellies of the South. Not alone was Sheridan to be crowned whose presence at Winchester electrified the troops and turned defeat into victory; not alone immortalized in history shall be the name of Meade who centralized the Union forces of the East, silenced the cannon of the foe at Gettysburg and hurled back that mighty tide of secession crestfallen toward the south. Truly these and other great leaders are entitled to boundless praise. But the soldier who watched on the dangerous picket line while his comrades and commanders were asleep; the soldier who carried the musket and knapsack, and with weary marches; the soldier who with unflinching valor faced the storm of shrieking shell and hissing bullets, and with the last gasp of loved ones marched on in his arms; the soldier who risked or laid down his life for his country—he, too, fills a hero's sphere.

"Up from the fields and the country homes, out from the desk and the factory, sprang the unnumbered hosts of patriots; thousands left their schools, trades and colleges, and even the lads left their play in response to the bugle-call to arms in defense of the flag—on they went in solid phalanx by companies, and regiments and corps and divisions; they stood like walls of adamant at Shiloh and Donelson and Vicksburg and Chattanooga; on with Sherman to the sea; they stood at Gettysburg and the wilderness and Cold Harbor and a thousand other battles of carnage and death and defeat and victory and success triumphant all the time and all the way from Appomattox to the Potomac. All those generals simply told you where to apply the force, but it was your strong hands, soldiers, that stayed the tottering Temple of Liberty. It was your strong hands, soldiers, that carried aloft the Star Spangled Banner, its folds unstained, its stars all there.

Abraham Lincoln

"Great conflicts demand wise leadership. Great conflicts try the metal of men. Then are they sounded if they be in tune. One there was, a diamond in the rough—the magnanimous commoner from the frontier—the friend of both North and South—one in whose halo of glory and immortality shines the illustrious name 'emancipator'—the sainted Abraham Lincoln. Born of humble parentage, educated in the hard school of experience, with a conscience void of offense toward God or man, he had a heart as tender as a child's and a purpose as firm as St. Paul's. He was susceptible to the purifying and inspiring influences of woman for he said that all that he was he owed to his angel mother. He had poles that kept him from grave error; he had wisdom as if from on high; he had sympathy that touched humanity at all points—these are the elements of sublime greatness. How he loved the Union. How he longed for peace!

"Hear his plea for harmony of his inaugural address: 'Though passion may have strained, it must not break, the bonds of affection. The mystic cords of memory stretching from every battlefield and patriot grave to every heart and hearthstone all over this broad land, will yet swell the chorus of the Union when touched again, as they surely will be, by the better angels of our nature.' With his malice toward none and his charity for all, he has enshrined himself in the hearts of lovers of liberty the whole world over. Teach the prattling babes to flap his name and to early gather inspiration from his genial countenance.

"That care-worn face with its deep furrows wrought in great mental struggle in response to his sense of right and the will of the people he dearly loved, has been, and ever will be, a special benediction to every soldier of the civil war. Teach every school child to venerate his noble character and to ever hold in mind the fact that, out of the loins of the poor and lowly, God raised up men to lead his children out of bondage.

Present Day Problems

"Now, for a few moments, let us turn our attention to the further development of this heritage that is left us. You soldiers preserved it for us, and I can hear you saying to the rising generation, 'What are you going to do with it?' I propose for one that while we may not be called upon to die for our country that we daily live for our country. And the best way to live for it is to know its needs and realize its dangers. This requires education. 'Is education that average nature must absorb; 'is education that checks the check of tyranny; 'is education that constitutes the only safeguard of a republic.

"Patriotism takes into serious account the over-present claims of posterity. True patriotism demands that we leave this world a better place to live in than we found it; that whatever we build here shall be handed on beautified and ennobled with a best heritage of enduring memories. That sin shall never sink so low as not to hope that its babes may be unattained; that the patriot shall ever stand guard over the rights of children that they may be wiser, better and happier than their parents were, and that over the dying flame shall burn on the brighter in the flame that it has kindled.

Proofs of Patriotism

"And what are the proofs of patriotism? In times of war the soldiers tell us with loyalty and courage. They follow the flag wherever it leads, meeting with both triumph and disaster, crushing those two imposters just the same—on with the flag until they have made facts of their country's aspiration to subdue tyranny, on with the flag until they have made realities of their country's dreams of peace and justice with honor. In times of war the women prove their patriotism all the way from writing letters of cheer and knitting garments and bandages, to giving a ter to a suffering soldier on the battle line. They follow the banner of the flag wherever it leads. 'Wherever duty appears, there they follow.' Above all flags they lift the conquering sign, and hold invisible love's battle line. And where blind guns are plotting for the grave, there are the lips that cheer, the arms that save.

"In times of peace, the proofs of patriotism are in honest toil, honest dealings among men, the enactment of just laws and obedience to law as written in the statutes.

Most Critical Times

"The most critical times in the life and safety of a nation are just after a war. Then are the nation's nerves most untrustworthy. There is the need of cautious policy. Is a government by, for and of the people, any propaganda in order to achieve success must first secure a majority support. Dynamite and bombs can never succeed in furthering any idea because there will never be a majority in favor of dynamite and bombs. We need have no real fear of anarchy because there will never be a majority in favor of anarchy. The people in favor of liberty without law. Through the ages of man's struggle for liberty and social happiness, the only liberty that has endured has been liberty under law; while anarchy means liberty without law.

"We are admonished never to rock the boat at any time, but it is doubly dangerous just after a war. While the storms of discontent may beat upon our ship of state we must know absolutely that the anchor of our hundred percent Americanism is still lodged. There are at least two good reasons why a high type of civilization should be perpetuated by the United States. One is that we may enjoy the pursuit of happiness ourselves; the other is that we may not lead the other nations astray. 'The eyes of the world' are focused upon the United States. When the Declaration of Independence struck the death-blow to monarchy, no single Caesar lay dying at the base of Pompey's statue, but every tyrant on earth felt the irresistible danger of human thought. One by one they have been falling into line. Ours was the first written republican constitution ever adopted by a free people. All other republics, and there are thirty-seven of them now, have patterned after ours. Truly Columbia is called to fill a high destiny.

Liberty Under Law

"Then there must be reverence and respect for law. If American liberty is to endure it must be under law. For thousands of years man has been striving through dynasties and monarchies and kingdoms and republics and democracies to establish liberty of some sort, yet the only kind of liberty that has ever been permanent was liberty under law. Without law and order and governmental regulations together with a large degree of conformity thereto, there is no liberty. It has been said that it is sometimes necessary to take away some liberty in order to preserve the greater liberty—that is, to preserve the liberty under law. When we get down revenge and evil desires and greed, and put up in their stead, brotherly love and self-mastery and fair play, we have gone a long way toward being free to live a happy life. The significance of the national emblem under law and order is the only kind of liberty it does or can guarantee.

Last Roll Call

"Veterans, your ranks are fast being thinned. One by one the comrades are dropping out of line to be absent from the roll call forever. The list of the dead is constantly increasing and the list of the living is constantly decreasing. Soon you will all be at rest to await the sound of the bugle calling you to form eternally the ranks above which separate truth and justice from hate and fear. The Sons of Veterans, who still retain a spark of the patriotic fire which burns in your brains, are filling up the gaping ranks. The Woman's Relief Corps, the daughters, the brothers and sisters, and all the rest of mankind, will ever hold your noble lives in sacred remembrance. We will ever observe Decoration Day. Your graves will still be strewn with garlands entwined by loving hands—garlands that are emblematic of all that is pure, noble and holy. The rose and the cypress, the myrtle and the forget-me-not above your silent bivouacs will bloom with eternal freshness, watered by the tears of a grateful people."

The ship will continue back and forth on this course for the first 24 hours, with an occasional run inland to the airport for delivery of messages as to the condition of the craft and progress being made.

Declaring that with the heavy weight, the craft would be controlled, R. O. D. Sullivan said that he and his co-pilot, G. Sullivan, would remain at the controls for the first 24 hours. When the weight has been lightened by the consumption of fuel, the first 24 hours will be approximately 24 hours as a house, with the pilot for one man to handle the ship, he said. Sol Hignett, mechanic, completes the crew.

Observer to Return Tomorrow
Howard Morris, here to observe the tests as the official representative of the National Aeronautics Administration, left for San Diego soon after the Albatross got into the air and will return here tomorrow afternoon to await conclusion of the flight.

Morning Saturday morning will officiate for a non-stop flight from San Diego to New York. The flight will be made by Lee Schoenhals, former army aviator, in an attempt to beat the record of 24 hours and 56 minutes made in 1928 by Lt. Oakley Kelly and John Macready in a spin from New York to San Diego.

He is scheduled to get away at Dawn Saturday morning in a sister ship of the "Spirit of St. Louis," powered with a Wasp motor.

LINCOLN, Neb., May 30.—Samuel R. McKelvie, publisher of the Nebraska Farmer and former governor, charged today that the rumored "farm rally" is being engineered by a few individuals who are seeking to nominate their candidate under the guise of farmer discontent.

The statement was interpreted here as directed at Gov. Adam McMullen and other recognized supporters of Frank O. Lowden, who have announced the proposal of raising the Republican convention with the view to forcing a farm relief plank into the platform on which the presidential nominee is named.

Court Notes

Beatrice Ellsworth started action to secure a divorce from Roy W. Ellsworth today. As a sample of the conduct on which she based her complaint, she alleged that, without giving anyone time to open the door to their home, he knocked off its hinges one day, entered, blazed over a heater and registered anger. According to the complaint, they were married in 1923 and separated April 12.

Roy Duvall has hair on his chest and he insisted on showing it at the dinner table when he refused to put on his shirt for the meal, according to a divorce complaint filed by Ruby Duvall today. Her girl friend and her brother were present, she said. On January 22 their baby accidentally toppled over a pot of coffee and Duvall became so angry that he told her to leave, the complaint stated, and went on to say that she did depart. They were married in 1923, the complaint stated.

Albert E. Stuelke had begun today an attempt to collect $1000 in Superior court from Ed Fies, claiming that the latter had engineered a real estate deal so as to cheat him out of his commission.

Claiming that her husband, Charles Plummer, indulged in questionable relations with Wilma Lane, also known as Wilma Jarvis, Mercedes Plummer today had launched a divorce suit against him. She declared that on May 10 he took their child to the country, telling her that he had taken it to Mexico and that she would not see it again. When officers arrived, he brandished a revolver and threatened their lives, she declared. The complaint said that they were married in 1925 and that they separated on May 10.

Deciding that their controversy could be settled out of court yesterday, H. G. Lemcke, of Orange, and the Orange County Garage company today had reached an agreement, but Lemcke will not collect the $1175.18 commission he was after and the garage firm will not acquire the $10,477 damages it sought in connection with the construction of a building in Anaheim.

The board of supervisors today decided not to establish a precedent in regard to paying for wig was signals. Receiving a communication from Burr Brown, city attorney of Seal Beach, asking the county to contribute $15 toward the cost of installing such a warning at Seventeenth street, in that city, the board instructed County Clerk J. M. Backs to inform him of its decision.

AUTO SALESMAN IS BURNED IN BLAST

W. Ray Heath, salesman of the G. M. C. garage, First and Main streets, was badly burned about the face, head and hands at 5:30 o'clock last night, when a gasoline can with which he was working, exploded.

He was taken to the Santa Ana Valley hospital, where his condition was reported as satisfactory today.

According to a police version of the explosion, Heath was removing gasoline from a machine in the garage, and placed the container on the car's battery. The battery is thought to have short circuited through the can, igniting the gasoline.

His clothes ablaze and his face badly burned, Heath calmly removed his clothing and extinguished the flames before he called for help.

MRS. FIEBLE IS ELECTED HEAD P.-T. A. COUNCIL

Declaring that parents do not visit schools because they are afraid, Dr. Gertrude Law, substituting for Ethel Richardson at the annual meeting last night of the City Council of Parent-Teachers' associations, urged that parents get the habit of visiting schools so that they would not be embarrassed when entering a school room.

Mrs. Law, who is identified with the state university, spoke on adult education, and commented on the findings of the 1929 census which reveals that there were in California at that time 100,000 persons who could not read or write, with the number of such persons in the United States running into the hundreds of thousands.

"The worthy use of leisure by adults is of grave concern to the California state department of adult education," the speaker said in asserting that adults need self-expression as badly as do children.

"Unfortunately mental capacities to which adults are subject may be taxed directly to exhaustion of the child by the time he is 15 years old," Mrs. Law said. "This points out the need of establishing schools that train people for parenthood, for home making should be the ultimate attack of this problem."

Mrs. John D. Rockefeller Jr. was greatly concerned by the need of education for parents, and at her death her husband established a great foundation for research work in the field of parent education. Many of the national organizations then set out to get some of the funds. Smith college, Teachers college, Columbia and the university of Michigan received funds from the Rockefeller foundation, for research work.

"A child welfare institute was then established at the university of California and $50,000 promised from the fund for 5 years. This institute has not yet distributed bulletins because the most desirable material cannot be gathered in a moment. When worth while material can be assembled, bulletins will be sent P.-T. A. organizations."

The years of helplessness of human beings are entrusted to adults. We adults do not study the years of investment of early childhood to the degree we should. We should try to establish sympathetic observation of our children. Experience of watching brings about a certain psychological effect. Trained observation of a child 1½ years old can predict very accurately what that child's capacities later are likely to be. They then can point out the kind of training that will be most beneficial. Too many parents say "no, no, no" to children's attempts at initiative. Observation is too often related to sentimental observation."

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Fay B. Spencer, president of the council. Dr. C. D. Bell gave a short talk, reminiscing about Santa Ana's growth in 40 years.

At the business session presiding at the address, Mrs. Sam Fieble was chosen president for the coming year. Other officers chosen were Mrs. James Harding, Mrs. John James, vice presidents; Mrs. Frances Benson, recording secretary; Mrs. Walter Hickey, financial secretary; Mrs. Walter Fies, treasurer; Harry Hickey, auditor; Paul Nicholson, historian, and Mrs. Roy Horton, parliamentarian.

Proposed amendment to the constitution were approved, the principal one being an increase in the dues for the city council. Under the amendment each association will pay into the treasury of the council annual dues of 5 cents for each member. The various associations identified with the council now have about 1600 members and it is hoped to increase the number to 2000.

WOMAN IN FLAME

When the fire broke out in the home of Mrs. J. H. Hickey, 1015 North Main street, last night, the woman was in the kitchen, and was badly burned about the face, head and hands at 5:30 o'clock last night, when a gasoline can with which she was working, exploded.

She was taken to the Santa Ana Valley hospital, where her condition was reported as satisfactory today.

According to a police version of the explosion, Hickey was removing gasoline from a machine in the garage, and placed the container on the car's battery. The battery is thought to have short circuited through the can, igniting the gasoline.

His clothes ablaze and his face badly burned, Hickey calmly removed his clothing and extinguished the flames before he called for help.

France Will Pay
Workers By Check

PARIS, May 30.—The French government is going to take some of its own medicine and pay by check all functionaries getting more than $30 a week.

For years ministers of finance have urged the public to use checks as an aid in keeping down inflation. Meantime, all officials except cabinet ministers and the president of the republic, were paid in cash.

Stranger than this governmental reluctance to do what it told the people to do, is the reason for sticking to cash payrolls. "It might seem strange for a public official to receive a check," it was explained in whispers, for during and after the war men were shot as spies on the evidence of checks they couldn't justify. This fear of scandal made the higher officials loath to take up the payroll checks.

It is even commented that Premier Poincaré's action in ordering checks used "may not be his most important act but it may be his most courageous one."

With all the talk of checks, they still are regarded with suspicion by many people and there are but few who have bank accounts.

DUNTON FORDS DEFEAT SEIDEL TEAM AT BOWL

Old "Boss" Snow had to quit his chattering and adjust his glasses at a 90-degree angle and pull a Willy Mays to get away with it but do it he did and the Dunton Fords defeated Seidel's team, 11 to 7, in last night's City League game at the Sixth and Olive street "Bowl."

Bob Nelson, who has shown unmistakable signs of being a sub-mariner of merit, worked eight and one-third innings for the Duntons before something went wrong. Four tremendous base knocks in succession, all of them of the ringing variety, convinced Snow that Bobby had gone haywire and the night ball pioneer went to the ridge himself.

Snow to Rescue
Runners were on second and third and only one was away when the begoggled chucker ascended the ridge. Snow worked carefully on George Mathews, the Seidel third base guardian, and got him on a pop fly to Bill Foote at first base. Van Hoy, the next hitter, fouled out to Catcher "Red" Thierly and the customers went on their more or less merry way home.

The slugging of the veteran "jug" Walters featured this free-hitting affair. "Firebrand George" had the honor of blasting the first home run of the City League season in the first inning when, with Foote and Snow on base, he clicked one of "Tex" Bergman's raise-balls to deep left. Walters' knees complained of the assignment and his aging legs all but buckled underneath him when he turned third but the old-timer made a homer out of it standing up.

He came up in the fifth with two on again and emptied the socks with a he-man double of center. And then in the ninth, with Snow on the cushions, "Tex" poured some more wood into one for a triple. Walters personally drove in five of his team's total runs.

Nelson Trough at First
Seidel's couldn't do much with little Nelson for the first five frames but they kept pecking away at him in the last three. Shirley and Bowe singled in the eighth and Bergman and Squires slammed out doubles and R. Sullivan and Shirley singled in the ninth before Snow took up the assignment.

The "Bowl" will be dark tonight. City league activity will be resumed tomorrow night with a game between the Santa Ana Commercial company and Kinslow's Machine shop.

FRANK GETTY

When the roaring, guttural, rubber-shod demons of steel, drawn out upon the track for the start of the international 500-mile race at Indianapolis, Wednesday, one of the most powerful will have at its wheel a young multi-millionaire from Michigan.

Driving his own car in the Indianapolis classic complices, Cliff Durant's annual vacation. Matching his skill and nerve against the world's foremost race drivers in the 500 miles of hurtling, desperate endeavor provides the son of the automotive magnate with relaxation. Looking on the young man in the frayed red sweater and the oil stained overalls, lounging congenially with the mechanics, one would not select him as the son of the famous W. C. Durant. As a matter of fact, Cliff has no ambition to be distinguished as his father's son, and is now nearly as noted for his stock dealings as his father.

In the wilds of Michigan, young Durant has a palatial country home, in which he spends most of his time. With a living room fitted with the paraphernalia of a modern broker's office, he is in touch with Wall Street over direct, private wires, and conducts his trading at first hand.

Cliff Durant recently arrived at Indianapolis with two airplanes, two passenger cars, pilots, chauffeurs, mechanics and attendants, not to mention a brokerage staff.

An office for trading in Wall Street was established in a convenient garage. Each day at dawn, Durant climbs into a practice car known as the "Kidney Krusher," and whirly off 100 miles on the "brick" and concrete course. Each evening about dusk, he repeats the performance. In between times, he conducts his trading operations and lends a hand with the tuning up of the car he will drive in the Decoration Day race.

The baseball team of Fullerton Junior college, with the Southern California championship honors safely tucked away, is endeavoring to gain even greater laurels. It was announced today. Efforts are being made by Dean W. T. Boyce to obtain a game with a northern California team to get an unofficial state championship.

Efforts to secure a contest with Modesto Junior college, champions of northern California, failed because of the fact that the northern college squad had disbanded.

After San Jose
However, Orange county fans may not be cheated out of a post-season game with some bearing on a general state championship claim. Boyce was negotiating today with the San Jose State Teachers' college to arrange a game for Saturday with that school.

The San Jose school is in the same league with Modesto Junior college and defeated Modesto in baseball. However, since San Jose is a four-year college the defeat of Modesto had no bearing on the championship.

If Fullerton can defeat San Jose, it can lay claim to the championship of the state even though it would not be accepted as official in junior college circles.

Beat All Comers
Fullerton won the Southern California championship last Saturday by defeating Long Beach for the second time, 5 to 0. Last Wednesday, Fullerton defeated Citrus Junior college, 14 to 2, in the semi-finals.

The local Junior college has enjoyed its best year in baseball. Throughout the entire league of Junior colleges, Fullerton won every game, in addition to defeating Whittier college, champions of the Southern California college conference. Santa Ana Junior college was defeated during the season by Fullerton 10 to 0 in a five-inning game.

With only two or three of the members of the team graduating, Coach Arthur L. Nunn expects to have another championship team in 1935 with many star players from the present high school scheduled to join the club.

KNOCKDOWN IN 10TH GIVES WILLIS EDGE

LOS ANGELES, May 30—A disastrous tenth round cost Joe Anderson, Covington, Ky., middleweight, the decision in his fight with "Cowboy" Jack Willis at the Olympic auditorium last night and gave the victory to Willis.

The fans thought that Anderson had a shade and received the decision. Anderson had taken a wide lead in the early rounds, but barely missed being knocked out in the final frame.

Willis, Anderson virtually assured of the victory, Willis drove him into a corner early in the tenth and two stiff rights to the chin sent the Kentucky boy down.

When Anderson came up Willis chased him about the ring but made a pitiful effort to put over a finishing blow.

THE SENSATIONAL NEWCOMER

Emile Barnes, a red-headed, freckle-faced, bow-legged kid from the south, is now one of the leading batters in the American league and yet few baseball followers are acquainted with his record. He hails from the University of Alabama where he was quite a football hero and is playing with the Senators with only a single year's experience behind him and that with Birmingham in the Southern league.

'Red' Barnes, Collegian From Alabama, Making Good With Washington; Steals Play From Pal Who Outshone Him On Campus

When Ralph Kress, kid shortstop of the St. Louis Browns, was topping American league batters the first few weeks of the season, the wise ones said it wouldn't long before one of the accustomed leaders of the previous seasons would slip ahead of him.

Perhaps one of the accustomed batters will slip ahead of the kid and lead the parade the rest of the season, but the kid didn't slip much during the month of May. When he did get knocked off the top, the knocking off was done by another rookie.

The new leader, when Kress was dislodged, was a red-headed youngster whose face is covered with freckles and whose legs are shaped somewhat like an O. His name is Emile Barnes and he's a Washington outfielder. For some reason, probably because he is anything but lovely, he was nicknamed "Lovely" in college.

This is Barnes' second year of professional baseball. He played his first last season with the Birmingham club in the Southern league.

The oddball at the Tampa training camp were all against Barnes getting in regularly in center field for the Senators, but other rookies disappeared when the season started and soon Barnes had the job as his own.

He Hits 'Em Hard
He started hitting the first day he played. And he's been hitting ever since. Sometimes he leads off and sometimes he's the fourth batter, but that doesn't worry him. His mark during May, in fact ever since he started, has stuck around the .400 mark.

Joe Sewell, Indians' shortstop, doesn't think Barnes will fizzle out. He has been seeing the red-head play ball ever since he first appeared on the University of Alabama campus, and in his opinion, Barnes is due for a long career in the majors.

"He's one of the best rookies in the league this year," Sewell says.

Incidentally, his sensational hitting has given Barnes the spotlight for the first time in his life instead of his home town pal, Grant Gillis, also with the Senators.

The two are from Grove Hill, Ala., and have played together in high school, in college and in the minors last year.

Gillis always was regarded as the better athlete of the two; or rather to put it this way, always drew the most attention from the public and sports writers.

In football, Gillis made the team easily, while Barnes had to show them plenty before he got on. Gillis made All-Southern his first year and was one of the heroes of the Alabama-Washington game at Pasadena in 1925. But Barnes was regarded as just one of the backs.

Under-rated Grid Star
In justice to Barnes, it might be said that Coach Wallace Wade considered him the most under-rated back in the south, one of the best defensive backs of that period. Barnes stayed at Alabama a year after Gillis and captained the team that tied Stanford in 1926. He became an All-Southern back.

The same story held in baseball. Big league scouts thought both had the makings of major leaguers, but Gillis had his eye out to get Gillis first.

Gillis played an entire year with Birmingham before Barnes got there. When the sale of the two to Washington was first announced, the fans down there said Gillis had the better chance of playing regularly this year.

But Barnes fooled them. He's in there regularly now and proving one of the sensations of the league, while Gillis, troubled some by injuries and a slow start, has been in and out of the Washington line-up.

SIX CLUBS MAY BE IN RUNNING TO LAST WEEK

By HENRY L. PARRELL
(NEA Service Sports Writer)
CLEVELAND, May 30—Admitting that competition is the life of business and the protection of the purse, it has been the ambition of the baseball people for years to furnish the persistent customer with a pennant race that would have eight clubs under a blanket clear up to the wire.

Eight clubs in a free-for-all to the very last battle would be perfect. Like the duffer's dream of 15 holes in 60, it would be too good. Seven clubs fighting it out wouldn't be so bad, six couldn't be accused and under such circumstances as the Yankees have brought about in the American league, three good contenders would be welcomed.

For a long time during the period when Ban Johnson was whooping up things for the American league, the National league was regarded as a collection of old-fashioned grandmas. The official communications from the council chambers of the league had as much punch as that Journal devoted to the activities of congress.

Same Old Stuff
At the termination of the season the National league imagines would gather in the old-fashioned grandeur of the Waldorf-Astoria, so through an old-fashioned session and utter, through John Heydler, an old-fashioned statement.

"Gentlemen, we look for another successful season. Every team in the league has been strengthened. Our clubs have numerous promising young players. The strength is evenly distributed and seven teams have a chance for the pennant. I wouldn't dare to predict a winner."

Meanwhile Ban Johnson was battling with everyone who would accept battle. He had his league in big type on the front pages and the reporters seldom went near the National league. It was predicted that there was nothing around the National league but statistics, and only the Elias can make news out of figures.

Yes, the National league was and is, an old-fashioned league and the league is now promoting an old-fashioned pennant race. Mr. Heydler at the present has six of his eight clubs in there fighting, and of the whole eight only one club, the Phillies, seem to be utterly without a chance.

It is such a scramble between the champion Pittsburgh Pirates, the St. Louis Cardinals, the Brooklyn Robins and the New York Giants that a winning streak of four games can change the position of nearly every team in the leading pack.

Braves Should Improve
The Boston Braves are not doing much and the Phillies are doing the best possible, but there is no telling when the Braves will come around to potential possibilities and start in the general direction of the leaders.

In the National league, however, no definite line of the six contending clubs has been obtained. "If" still govern the chances of the six teams—and they all have a chance.

The Cardinals, however, are a distinct disappointment and hardly will recover. The Reds and the Robins are prospering on flimsy strength and the Cubs can't hit a steady pace. Regardless of their position, the Pirates still look like the berries.

IS THIS A DARK HORSE?

Reports coming from the south indicate that Robert T. Jones Jr., one of America's most promising young golfers, is getting his game well in hand. He has played four rather serious rounds in recent weeks, rounds in which legal business was not preying on his mind and he turned in the dice score of 267. He scored a 65, 67, 67 and 68.

The lowest round he ever made on his home course was a sensational 63 in 1933, but in that 63 round above he came mighty near delivering a 60. He took a six on the 12th hole and drew an out-of-bounds penalty on the tenth. His drive on the seventeenth found an

DON'T MAKE JAWN CRY

In these days of baseball when it is almost forgotten that Jawn J. ever was more familiarly known as Murgus, most of the major league managers have softened up enough to say nice things about other clubs.

But you never hear Jack Hendricks say nice things about McGraw and they used to be the best of pals. Some of the other managers don't stretch a point to flatter the Jints.

Joe McCarthy, manager of the Cubs, may not have been banking one off the cushions at Jawn, however, when he said a few days ago:

"The Giants? They're not tough. Brooklyn is tougher. Got better pitchers and their batters are harder to get out."

But one of his boys, in second base, the motion, added, "Yeah, but Cawd, how dumb they are."

WAR VETERANS ARE GUESTS OF JOINT ROTARY-KIWANIS MEETING HERE WEDNESDAY

With veterans present as special guests, the meeting of the Santa Ana Kiwanis club with Rotary at St. Ann's Inn yesterday taxed the dining room almost to its capacity. The program was given over to the introduction of veterans, civil war, Spanish-American and world—the rendition of musical numbers by the glee club of the auxiliary, bugle calls by members of the American Legion's drum and bugle corps and to an address by the Rev. F. T. Porter of the First Christian church and a member of the Kiwanis club.

Short introductory talks were made by J. H. Brown, commander of Sedgwick Post; Charles Van Wyk, commander of the legion post; Charles Dixon, of the Spanish war veterans, and William Murphy, just elected commander of the state organization of Disabled Veterans of the World War.

The motto of the Rotary club was taken by the Rev. Mr. Porter as the subject of his discourse, and he paid tribute to the soldiers and to the organization for the manner in which they had exemplified the motto:

"We have as our honored guests today men whose lives have been an exemplification of the principles of Rotarianism service above self," the speaker said. "It was not a war spirit that caused them to go forth nor did it need such but a deliberate determined responsive obedience to the divine call of union and liberty."

"The thought service above self was deeply planted in their hearts and to its support and maintenance they pledged their property, their lives, their sacred honor—and faithfully they kept the pledge and every one of these honored guests speaks eloquently to us of holy submission to the behest of an endangered country. Every grave we decorate tomorrow marks the price of love and loyalty to native land, the price of liberty and equality of fraternity and unity."

"The same spirit of service above self actuated the boys of the Spanish American and World wars."

"We need service above self in the home today. It is not service that frets, worries or disappoints, it is having no one to serve."

"The home that selfishness rears—every plank of the floor is rotten and every stone is dug from the quarries of hell."

"You cannot have this country with eight homes and unless we can have, in the home, service above self, we will have split homes."

"We need service above self in the business world today. The Golden Rule is the most practical business guide in the world today. Banish the men who are compelled to serve and fill the world with those who enjoy serving and you change the world from a hell to a heaven."

"The only highway to happiness is service above self. Every nation needs to accept this motto of service above self."

"If we are to create a better and happier world, if we are to bring about a social state with justice and finer conditions we must render a service above self."

There is a strong conviction based upon reliable evidence that if the police force of any city was withdrawn life would have but little value. The hoards of human beings actuated by selfishness now in hiding would come forth and rob and murder at will. The police department of New York City not long ago made a statement to the effect that if the police were withdrawn for a week, more than two million thugs and bandits would come out from their quarters and turn loose every class of crime in the calendar. If there were no criminal courts and no restraints we would have an era of robbery, adultery, rape, fraud, and deception that would astound the world. Homes of prostitution would be in every square, gambling halls on every corner.

"Men are bestial—drunken, syphilitic, profane, vile and filthy because they put self above service."

"The institutions of a people who put service above self are churches, schools, hospitals, art galleries, libraries and play grounds. The institutions of a people who put self above service are the brothels, saloons, gambling dens and every institution that demoralizes manhood and corrupts government."

"There is a moral crisis in American politics today. Vast corruptions are being participated in or connived at by men who are high up in our national government. This corruption grows out of a conception of political life which treats the whole matter of obtaining and holding office as a game, the prize going to the one that can outwit the other."

"When political responsibility does not call for service above self it is only a game and men forget vital issues and lofty principles."

"The very nature of the state and our economic order calls for men who will come out of the valleys of political wrangling and corruptions and that will stand upon the mountain heights and point to fairer worlds and lead the way."

Editor Register: Having been a subscriber and reader of your paper for the last 10 years, and having noted the manner in which sundry editorials appearing in your paper during that time, have berated the Los Angeles papers for including various other cities' attractions as belonging to Los Angeles, I cannot help but comment on your editorial "Helping Ourselves," as given in the issue of the 23rd, inst. As to your clause "In a deep sense we own that which we can appropriate" is it your opinion that, due to the controversy raging as to which town the residents in West Orange should annex, by repeatedly leaving off a name of a town, a Santa Ana paper can lead people to believe that the proposed hospital on the other side of Main street is in the city limits of Santa Ana? Now as the location of this hospital was not especially brought about by the efforts of either neighboring town, would it not be courtesy to title articles as from the town to which they belong? Even if we as residents of Orange do allow a school bond for a much needed school to be voted down, we ask you to give us a little credit for those things that do come to us, and make your many subscribers in this town feel that, as one of the finest papers of which we know in any town of your size, you are truly serving the territory you advertise to cover.

Your editorial in the same issue, "Now We Understand," indicates an appreciative sense of humor possessed by the editor. In all seriousness, accept this letter as a result of the many remarks that the writer has heard of the honor-grasping disposition of your boosters.

Thanks for Angelo Patri's article, Benny's Notebook and the many articles of Orange news. Yours for a better paper, ERNEST W. GOMMEL.

The writer of the above is commendably anxious for notices of his own city in the paper. We have not consciously omitted to give credit. It may have been that it appeared so, as in the case of the hospital. We are aiming to consider the county as a whole in our news columns, and are glad to have any failures on the part of the paper pointed out, as the writer has done.

BOXING RECORD
NEW YORK, May 30.—The world's long distance boxing record was revealed by Charles Alexander Mason and Carl Hollander, upon their return from Southampton on the steamship Lapland. They had boarded the Majestic at New York to say good-bye to some friends. There was still time to spare so they started a sparring bout in the ship's gymnasium. They were still boxing when the ship pulled anchor. Later, they reached the deck in time to wave farewell to the twinkling lights of Manhattan. At Southampton, because they had no passports, they could not go ashore and were transferred to the Lapland for the return "bout."

COUNTY HEALTH EXCHANGE CLUB OFFICER TELLS IS TOLD ABOUT ABOUT DISEASE SCHOOL BONDS

Prevalence of whooping cough throughout the county was commented on today by Dr. K. H. Sutherland, county health officer. He issued the following statement: "The state department of health in a recent bulletin cautions parents to protect their children from needless exposure to this disease. Whooping cough differs from some other respiratory infections in that it is more prevalent in late winter and summer than it is in winter. From all reports, the incidence of this malady will be higher this season than for many in the past."

"Whooping cough is not a disease to be considered lightly. It causes many deaths in younger children and pre-disposes frequently to tuberculosis and other chronic diseases. Parents should make every attempt to protect their young children from contact with any child who is coughing severely, perhaps even to the point of vomiting, even though the cough does not show a characteristic whoop."

"Milder cases of this disease may never whoop, or if they do, the appearance of the whoop may be preceded several days or even weeks by a hard cough, which in itself is capable of spreading infection. Any child developing a severe cold or cough at this time should be isolated until the true nature of the malady can be determined."

"Cases of whooping cough or suspected whooping cough must be reported immediately to the health department for supervision of isolation. If no physician is called to care for the case, the head of the house is legally responsible for making such report."

"It is only through willing cooperation that the people of the state and this community can save their children from much needless illness."

ARGENTINE WINE
Juan Carlos Godoy, consul general of Argentina was guest of Santa Ana yesterday, coming here from Long Beach on a tour of sales throughout the Southwest. He was introduced at a luncheon at St. Ann's Inn by W. H. Kneen, city manager.

Greatly pleased with Santa Ana, particularly with its streets and business section, the South American consul apparently was not so pleased with the city's parks. He was enthusiastic in his praise for the Long Beach parks which he visited, however.

Consul Godoy recently returned to his country from Ireland and other places in Europe where he has been making a survey for his country and stated that he would recommend to his government that the country's training ship, the "President Sarmiento" come to Southern California waters next year.

B. Hees will arrange the program.

Vaudeville will entertain the crowds again from 4:30 until 5:30 o'clock. From this time until dusk there will be dancing and swimming. The grand climax of the day will be one and one-half hours of fireworks.

SAN CLEMENTE HAS NEW FIRE WARNING

SAN CLEMENTE, May 30.—The whole town can hear the piercing whistles of the new fire siren now installed on the water reservoir.

The siren is a 20-inch one, requiring a seven and one-half horse power motor to pull it, and costing approximately $400.

A remote control, which reaches to Ray's garage, where the San Clemente fire fighting equipment is located, has been attached to the case of fire one should call the number of Ray's garage. One blast from the siren indicates there is a fire in unit one; three blasts in unit two; three blasts in unit three. Four blasts is a summons for San Clemente's volunteer fire-fighting force to assemble at Ray's garage.

These volunteers, 30 strong, are drilling on safety first work, the entering of buildings, the treatment of unconscious bodies and first aid.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter and Social brothers entertained their friends with a barbecue at the Walker ranch in the Guadalupe canyon Sunday. About 75 were present.

Future Of Beach Oil Field Hangs On Outpost Well

HUNTINGTON BEACH, May 30.—The Garfield well located on Tenth street between Walnut and Olive streets, failed to flow last evening after being drilled since 11 p. m. Sunday. It had been predicted that the well would be a good one from the showing in the core. There is a pressure of 525 pounds on the casing but is not sufficient to cause the well to flow.

The McCoy well located on the corner of Eleventh and Olive streets is tied up with a reamer stuck in the hole. No progress can be made toward bringing this well in until the reamer has been loosened. The McCoy well struck about 100 feet of water and below the 400 foot level and plugged back to about 400 feet. It is reported that they have about 200 feet of good oil sand in this well, from which production can be expected if the water has been shut off in the bottom.

These two wells have a very important bearing upon the future drilling in the Huntington Beach town lot area. Oil men are of the opinion that if good producing wells are not secured in these two locations the company now operating in the field will not be inclined to do any more drilling.

BANK AT SAN CLEMENTE IS GROWING FAST

SAN CLEMENTE, May 30.—Figures compiled on May 30 at the end of the Bank of San Clemente's first six months period, reveal that the bank has a balance of total deposits in six months amounting to $386,000. This is compared with a banking office, established for an institution so recently established.

Commercial accounts show a steady growth, now numbering 356, with an average balance of $544.42. November 13, there were 15 accounts; December, 104; January, 146; February, 176; March, 196; April, 200; and May, 356. The increasing number of accounts has not affected a decrease in the average balance, which was, in December, $400.61.

There are now 171 active savings accounts, with an average balance of $192.33. This number will perhaps be greatly increased after June 30, when the transfer of accounts will not involve a loss of interest.

Savings accounts totals would also be larger, but for the fact that there are not many children in San Clemente. They are the chief holders of savings accounts. Records of the bank show that it has also extended a number of real estate loans.

At the morning service a pageant will be presented, "The Best of Days." It will be directed by Miss Lois Thornburg, Spring and the growing plants and flowers will be represented by beautiful costumes of children; the holidays of the year will also be featured with the "Children's Day" as it is a day that helps in an educational way.

Each elementary department of the church will have a part in the program and 45 children are being trained for their various roles. A special platform has been erected that will enable all who attend to have an unobstructed view of the pageant.

Since the first children's day, 50 years ago, 35,000 students have been helped through college by a loan fund, says the Rev. Walter B. Cole, pastor of the First Methodist church. The day he declared, was a connecting link between the children of the church and the educational plans of the church for its young people. "Last year, alone," said the Rev. Mr. Cole, "3,000 students were helped to continue their college courses through funds given on this day."

In the evening the young people will present a play based on missionary work.

Woman Fined $150 For Hitting Man

NEWPORT BEACH, May 30.—Pauline Boone, Balboa woman, won one argument but lost another here yesterday, and Sam Steifel, Balboa court owner, learned not to scorn a woman's fury.

Steifel lost the first argument with the Boone woman, but won the second, with the assistance of Judge W. A. Leonard.

Trouble arose when Steifel was charged by the woman with taking some flower bulbs from her garden, which she claims he stole. Steifel denied the charge but lost the argument when Pauline Boone picked up a stick to drive her arguments home, he testified.

Steifel appeared in court with a black eye and a welt across his face as mute testimony of the embroglio. Mrs. Boone appeared in court on a battery charge. Judge Leonard levied a $150 fine on the woman after hearing the testimony. The fine was paid.

HENSHAW PRESIDENT OF BEACH CHAMBER

LAGUNA BEACH, May 30.—H. H. Henshaw has been named president of the Laguna Beach Chamber of Commerce by the board of directors to take the place of Dr. B. B. Mason, who resigned in order to devote more time to his duties as councilman.

Hayward, pastor of the White Temple Methodist church, Solos by Mrs. Walter Rose, Lincoln's Gettysburg address, presented by R. E. Smith and an address of welcome by William P. Webb Jr., were other features of the program.

GARDEN GROVE SHIPS 61 CARS OF VALENCIAS

GARDEN GROVE, May 30.—With shipments of Valencia oranges from Garden Grove averaging approximately three cars per day, and very satisfactory prices to the grower, running from 6-13 to 7 cents per pound, the shipping season for the 1928 Valencia crop in this district is now well under way, with bright prospects for a successful year.

The two local packing houses, operated by the Garden Grove Citrus association and the Garden Grove Mutual Orange association, began operations about two weeks ago, and up to the present time have shipped a total of 61 carloads of golden fruit to eastern markets.

With a high market reported and a strong demand for Valencia, shipments are now going out steadily, which will result in a flow of thousands of dollars into this district this season.

While picking in some sections has revealed a somewhat lighter crop than was anticipated, the quality has fully come up to expectations, and this fact coupled with the present top prices, will more than offset any decrease in the yield, it is reported.

Postal Receipts Increase Rapidly

SAN CLEMENTE, May 30.—Examination of San Clemente's post-office receipts reveal a steady increase in the number of stamp sales and cancellations.

This is an increase in stamp sales of 140 per cent over the figures for the September quarter, and an increase in cancellations of approximately 100 per cent. Figures for the June quarter will undoubtedly show another great gain.

The post office, a fourth class one, does more than the amount of business required from a third class office, according to Postmaster Latham, who has requested the government to change its status to third class rating. It is expected that this will be done soon.

NEW AIR CLUB IS FORMED AT SPANISH CITY

SAN CLEMENTE, May 30.—An aero club has been formed here. The club is known as the San Clemente Flying club and is affiliated with the Western Aero club. Property adjoining the coast highway near the Cotton estate is being cleared to make a landing field for the local aviators. The local club has 12 members at present and several other persons have signified their intention of joining the club in the near future.

Eight members of the San Clemente Flying club, few of whom have had any flying experience whatsoever, received their first lesson last week. Bill Watkins, Gordon Smith, Dick Sears, Bud Fenwick, Bill Adams, C. A. Watkins, Claude Carr, and Dwight Jacobus were shown the fundamentals of flying, then taken aloft where they were given the stick and allowed to manage the ship.

Four of the embryo flyers, Floyd Ray, Bill Faulkner, E. W. Clausen and George Bailey will get under way this week.

The club members are embarking on a five week course which will be given on the new San Clemente landing field in planes from Clover field. The latest type, safety, dual controlled Travelair biplanes will be used. The chief instructors will be Claude Dudley and Lieut. Bud Hussey. Both of these men are noted government flyers and instructors, with years of flying experience.

After this course is completed those who are thought to be likely aviators, capable of further and more sustained flying, will be able, after passing a physical examination, flying and aerial navigation, and subsequently, after they have made the requisite number of solo flights, secure their pilot licenses.

CIVIC BODY AT BEACH ACTS TO GET FRONTAGE

HUNTINGTON BEACH, May 30.—The chamber of commerce voted to ask the city council to appoint a committee from that body to act with prominent citizens in interviewing the Huntington Beach company with a view to purchasing a part of the beach frontage. President W. B. Mandeville announced that he had requested T. B. Talbert to be present at the meeting and present his plan for purchase of beach frontage.

Talbert's absence President Mandeville explained that Talbert had advocated a plan whereby the city could secure an option on the beach frontage and then buy from the Huntington Beach company as much as could be afforded at the time. The beach will never be any cheaper than at present and if the city buys a small portion at intervals, the cost will not be burdensome in taxes and will preserve to the public the splendid beach front along the mesa here, Mandeville stated.

W. R. Osborn made a very effective talk in support of the purchase of beach frontage. C. P. Patton and C. N. Whittam also spoke in favor of the proposition.

The chamber of commerce also recommended to the city council that there be erected a band stand on the beach front. Those present at the meeting were: W. B. Mandeville, J. D. Brown, J. W. Mitchell, Dr. G. A. Shank and others.

The matter of restrictions for residence purposes was presented to the meeting by Dr. G. A. Shank who spoke of the many advantages to living in Huntington Beach. He said the value of the real estate men in a community, President W. B. Mandeville explained that the financial institutions of Huntington Beach are doing everything in their power to assist the farmers in the nearby community. He explained the federal reserve system and the banking laws of the state.

Fred Basse, president of the chamber of commerce of Westminster, was present at the meeting and gave a short talk encouraging the local merchants to give more attention to his city, which is logically within the business area, from which they should draw trade.

The matter of repairing the pier was postponed to a future meeting of the chamber of commerce, owing to the length of the engineer's report. C. R. Furr, incoming president of the chamber of commerce was given a warm welcome by those present and the outgoing president, W. B. Mandeville was given a rising vote of thanks for his efficient and untiring work during the past year.

Orange Man Hits Storms In East

ORANGE, May 30.—A letter received from Sherman Gilgoly who is driving to St. Louis in company with his daughter, Miss Helen Gilgoly, tells of the encountering of heavy storms, enroute. At one place in Texas, Gilgoly was forced to keep to the road all night on a stretch that should have taken but two or three hours traveling, the car going into the ditch twice. Wind, rain and a severe electrical disturbance continued throughout the night, he reported.

Gilgoly and his daughter arrived in St. Louis, yesterday, where they will attend the graduation exercises of the college of which Miss Florence Gilgoly is a graduate. Miss Florence will accompany them home, the return trip to be made by a northern route.

Miscellaneous Shower
Compliments Popular
Bride-to-Be

The most recent party complimenting Miss Phyllis Mitchell who will become the wife of Herman Ranney in the near future, was a delightful affair planned by Miss Jean Tantlinger and Miss Vivian Mathew, and presented at Rose Arbor Inn.

Dainty brides graced the tally cards distributed for bridge, and bridal ribbons tied the attractive prizes won by Miss Opal Dowdy, scoring high, and Miss Helen Sawday, second high. Miss Mitchell shared in the prize awards, for to her was presented a large basket overflowing with gifts of a miscellaneous nature.

While these were being admired, tables were arranged with colorful flowers for serving an appetizing two-course tea menu. Guests found their places by means of cunning engagement rings.

Sharing in the enjoyable affair with Miss Tantlinger, Miss Mitchell, and their honoree, Miss Mitchell, were Mrs. R. P. Mitchell, Mrs. J. A. Ranney, Miss Dorothy Mae Gardner, Miss Nella Bates, Miss Helen Sawday, Miss Louis Ranney, Miss Marie Mitchell, Miss Opal Dowdy of Huntington Beach, Miss Margaret Wentz of Los Angeles, Miss Virginia Bigelow, Mrs. Donald Fletcher and Mrs. John Siegel.

Woman's Club Greet
Guests at Annual Reciprocity Day

White Gables, spacious and airy home of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Watkins at 1342 North Ross street, has several times been the gathering place for members of Santa Ana Woman's club on special occasions, and always the gathering is just such a happy one as yesterday, when the club celebrated Reciprocity day at an enjoyable tea.

Greeted by the president, Mrs. M. C. Williams, and by Mrs. C. S. Dunphy and members of the courtesy committee, the guests were ushered to the big enclosed porch where the program was given under the direction of Mrs. Watkins, chairman of the program committee. The porch was gay with flowers in low bowls and hanging baskets, and overlooked the little formal garden where the ripple of a wall fountain played a soft obbligato to the program features.

Mrs. Watkins had been asked to give some of her clever readings, so opened the program with "Modjesky as Camille," an entertaining account of an old backwoodsman's experience in hearing the great tragedienne. She followed this with an amusing encore number, "The Irish Wake."

Mrs. T. N. Hubbard was introduced as soloist, and sang "The Sunshine That Fills My World," very beautifully, with Miss Carrie Seaton as her accompanist. "Gypsy Love Song" was her second enjoyable number. Miss Leonore Tompkins contributed to the program when she presented two of her piano pupils, Miss June Slater and Miss Dorothy Hamren, charming young Huntington Beach school girls. They played a duo number, Brahms' "Hungarian Dance No. 7," which they had given in the recent Elstedsford contest, rating 95 2-3 per cent. Miss June followed this with a masterly rendering of a Schubert Impromptu in B flat.

There were those present who knew that Mrs. Joseph Thurston of Laguna Beach, was a talented reader, and she was asked to add something to the program. With her usual courtesy, she consented, giving Kipling's "L'Envoi" very feelingly, and in response to the appreciative applause, adding "Carry On" by Robert Service.

Mrs. Albert Launer of Fullerton, county club president, was introduced, and in her friendly manner, alluded to the numerous pleasant social affairs sponsored by the Woman's club which she attended. She was then asked to give some account of the recent state federation convention at San Diego. In a very interesting manner she discussed the revision regarding club representation, which came up at the convention, and its defeat, which all present were agreed, was best for the clubs in smaller cities and communities. With the utmost fairness, Mrs. Launer reviewed the situation, and outlined what conditions would be had, the revision gone into effect, with Los Angeles having a voting strength so greatly in excess of the other communities. The measure was defeated by 105 votes, some of which came from Los Angeles itself, as explained with all fairness by the speaker.

Mrs. Thurston followed this talk with an outline of some of the pleasant social features of the convention.

At the close of the program, past presidents of the hostess club were asked to escort the clubwomen from other sections of the county through the dining room, where each one was handed a graceful little basket containing sandwiches and cake. Mrs. E. C. Wilson and Mrs. W. H. Kuhn presided at the tea and coffee urns, and were assisted by Mrs. George Lester. The guests returned to the porch to enjoy the refreshments in friendly little groups.

Clubs from all over Orange county were represented among the guests, and these, with members of the hostess club present, totaled almost 100 women who met to enjoy the afternoon.

Woman's club members were happy to greet their president, Mrs. Williams, who, during her absence of two months had taken a delightful eastern motor trip with Mr. Williams and their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Riggle and family. The courtesy committee which played a large part in the afternoon's affairs, is composed of Mrs. Dunphy, Mrs. Ella Webster and Mrs. P. J. Adams. Mrs. Watkins' program committee members are Mesdames J. H. Tompkins, William Whitehead and George Lester, while the refreshments committee, which had charge of serving, was composed of Mrs. Charles Hoehn, chairman, and Mesdames H. D. Miles, George Kiever and A. A. Schlamman.

Enjoyable Party Given
In Compliment to
Miss Leonard

Complimenting Miss Dorcas Leonard, whose marriage to Ivan Elliott will take place Friday, June 1, was a happy gathering of relatives planned by Miss Leonard's aunt, Mrs. J. R. Moore, herself a bride of only a few months, and formerly Miss Edith Ward.

An amusing romance was read by Miss Dorothy Leonard, and the guests were asked to fill in the blanks with words which had been distributed among them. After the completion of the tale, each one present was asked to contribute her choicest recipe to the collection of the bride-elect.

An interruption came in the ringing of the door bell, and Miss Leonard, answering the ring, discovered her sister and her cousin, laden with packages of all shapes and sizes. These were opened by the delighted bride-to-be, who found a variety of gifts to adorn her future home.

Refreshments of cake, fruit salad, salted nuts, and fruit were served to the following guests: Mesdames N. H. Leonard, E. F. Minter, C. S. Minter, W. J. Richardson, K. H. McArthur, F. S. Donaldson, J. E. Ward, Henry Gibson, Sam Ward, Earl Elliott, Lorraine Bowe, D. P. Leonard, Neff Morrison, Miss Grace Elliott, Miss Grace Ballou, Miss Dorothy Leonard and the honored guest, Miss Dorcas Leonard. Little Harry Lorraine Bowe, David Leonard, Gene Morrison and Alice Ward were the children present.

Miss Leonard is a graduate of Orange union high school, of the Santa Ana Junior College and is now employed in the Santa Ana public library. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Leonard of West Orange. Mr. Elliott is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Earl Elliott, of 1212 North Ross street. He attended the Santa Ana high school and also Oregon Agricultural college.

Garfield Club Has Friendly Meeting

The Garfield club held its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Frank Calkins, 809 Garfield street, where a Maytime party had been planned by the hostess. The living rooms were filled with baskets of lovely flowers from her own garden.

Conversation, needle work and a clever ruse guessing contest made the afternoon pass quickly. Mrs. G. B. Lamme as winner of the contest, received a crystal basket filled with rose carnations and baby breath, while Mrs. Edd. Lamme was consoled with a tiny basket of Cecil Bruner buds and forget-me-nots.

Refreshments at the tea hour also carried out the May motif. The salad sandwiches, pickles and olives being packed in individual May baskets. These were followed by delicious strawberry shortcake with whipped cream and coffee.

Members present were Mesdames G. B. Lamme, Joseph Haupt, Harvey Groover, J. E. Thompson, R. E. McBurney, Edd. Lamme, Will Dietrich, David Caldwell and E. V. Deck.

Young Matron Presents
First Party Since
Spring Wedding

Presenting her first party as a young matron, Mrs. Charles A. Hunt, formerly Miss Mary Georgiana Lewis, greeted half a dozen friends at a delightful bridge afternoon in her ranch home near Anaheim.

Miss Charlotte Harnois took first place in scoring, and received the daintily embroidered guest-towel chosen by her hostess for a prize. Some of Mrs. Hunt's lovely wedding linens were used on the bridge tables for serving refreshments, with the china and silver that will always express the same happy occasion. Chicken salad, sandwiches, iced tea and home-made cookies were served.

In the guest group were Miss Mary Elizabeth Rutledge, Mrs. Lawrence Mills of Anaheim, Mrs. Robert Lufberry (Charlotte Fine) of Huntington Beach, Miss Marjorie Calles, Miss June Goodwin and Miss Charlotte Harnois of this city.

The wedding of Miss Lewis and Mr. Hunt was a charming garden ceremony of the early spring, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Lewis, between this city and Garden Grove.

WOMAN'S DAY

Bernard Shaw thinking it was time for him to make a play, recently remarked, "I love women; men hate them; I'm putting women in a play." Those who love the ornate, the impersonal, the artificial; whereas, men, bless them, have an eye for the sterling, the home and hearthside.

Perhaps the reason women love it is that they do, and men don't. They don't, is because women get away from home and are never at home. That's an exaggeration, but it's only a change, and to enjoy a change, to see a hotel's change; to see a home is.

AUTO DRESSES

By feminine clothes never return to this automobile era, and to some fashion authorities insist that automobiles are tailored, simple, sporty and business and panners and bunched in horse and era, and that bugles would clothes just as much as. But our lady forbears live in bugles to the extent their lady descendants live in. They occasionally had corn and candles to make, to say of soft soap to boil and to dye.

LEGS NOT ART?

Of dresses, painters are fighting mad at the short skirt because they think it is much as that it's putting length painting out of business. The bigger the canvas the more the oil used, the the bill for a starving why ladies won't be painted length with their legs is somewhat of a mystery. They believe in the aesthetic of the style! Maybe they're future generations won't be. After all we do not yet have our display for greater would no more women of future generations would of legs than our Great-Aunt wondered what we'd think of length skirts.

NOT SO MODERN!

Modern woman so modern we have made no little of our women aviators—Elders, Frances Gray, Doran, Princess Lowenstein, Herta and Pauline, and in 1938 the exactly as excited about it as it is about aviators of 471 balloonists 49. They say that today only about 50 women in who can really safely fly. Considering that many more aviators than of the long ago stand and be more adventurous than of today.

Sometimes one wonders if all modern woman's cockiness her modernity isn't a bit taken!

They steered their boat up to the shore, and Clowdy then began to roar, "Hello, there, Mister! How are you? And, will you let us land? We're Tynmites, and out for fun. We'll promise no harm will be done." "Why, sure!" the fat man answered, "come ashore. I'll lend a hand."

"Throw out the anchor!" Scouty cried. "Just let it drop down over the side. While we are here, we do not want our boat to float away. The fat man's nose as he can be. Perhaps some funny things we'll see, if we just run around a while. With him we'll spend the day."

They dropped the anchor in, at last, which made their wondrous houseboat fast. And then the Tynmites jumped on shore. The fat man laughed aloud. "My goodness, you are small," said he. "Not one of you as big as me. Don't dret about that, as long as you're a happy bird."

"Now, tell me where you're heading for. Perhaps I have some treats in store. The River of Fun is mine, you see. I'm keeper of the gate. If I should raise those gates up high, your little boat could sail right by, and what you'd see down yonder stream, I'm sure you'd think was great."

Then Scouty said, "Tis best you know that that is where we'd like to go." "All right," replied the man, "but first I'll show you where I live. Right through this pathway, follow me. My home I'd like you all to see. I have some things which you will want, and I will gladly give."

The Tynmites trailed along behind and Carpy said, "Oh, my, you're kind." They traveled down the shoreline to a climbing path of stone. The fat man said, "I'm ruler here, so there is not a thing to fear. Up in my funny little house I've always lived alone."

WEST END THEATER

A great photoplay of the American desert is Henry King's production of "The Winning of Barbara Worth," now showing at the West End theater. Based on the famous novel of the same name, the motion picture version loses none of the power of the Harold Bell Wright story which thrilled more than ten million readers.

The tense and romantic story of the water reclamation of the vast western wastelands is the theme of the picture. It opens with the first trickle of humanity coming slowly to the desert. It portrays the sufferings, trials and disappointments of the pioneer, and unlike most productions, carries the work of reclamation through to ultimate success, affording, by the way, an interesting and complete education on that great and important work—irrigation.
